

ESPN Uses Seven-Day "Wait" On Tennessee-Missouri

<http://www.kttn.com/kgozfm/modules/news/article.php?storyid=110397>

---

ESPN Uses Seven-Day "Wait" On Tennessee-Missouri

Sports

Posted by : Tom

Posted on : 2013/10/22 9:32:14

ESPN is using its "seven-day option" before deciding on a kickoff time for the Missouri Tigers home game with the Tennessee Volunteers on Saturday, November 2nd.

The game WILL BE an early evening kick. If the game is chosen for ESPN, it will kick at 6 o'clock. If the game goes to ESPN2, it would kick at 5 o'clock. Pre-game on the "Tiger Network" from Learfield Sports, and KTTN FM 92.3, will begin TWO hours before kickoff.

After this weekend's games are completed, ESPN will decide between Tennessee at Missouri AND Auburn at Arkansas, putting one game on ESPN and the other on ESPN2.

The rest of the SEC football schedule for November 2nd (along with TV slots) are set. Mississippi State will play at South Carolina at 11:21 AM on SEC-TV, Georgia and Florida battle in Jacksonville at 2:30 PM on CBS, Alabama State plays at Kentucky at 6:30 PM on CSS, and UTEP (Texas-El Paso) at Texas A&M at 8 PM on ESPN2.