The public is being encouraged to participate in a production by the North Central Missouri College Introduction to Theater class.

With just five students in that class, the public is encouraged to participate in both acting and behind the scenes.

A series of one act performances called One Acts and Monologues are the night of November 23rd at 7 o'clock at the Hoover Community Theater.

Auditions are tonight at 7 o'clock at the Ritze Building on the North Central Missouri College campus.

Scripts will be provided at the audition tonight to read. Persons performing on November 23rd also are to follow a script rather than making up their own monologues.

Connie Martin teaches the Intro to Theater class at North Central Missouri College.
