Authorities yesterday afternoon canceled an endangered person advisory issued Sunday night for a missing girl after she was found safe in Daviess County.

14 year old Megan Taylor Guffey had been the subject of a search after she went missing early Saturday morning.

In the advisory issued by the Daviess county sheriff's department, it was reported that the girl was believed to be accompanied by 17 year old Jeramy Sanders of Pattonsburg. Media reports indicate Sanders has been taken into custody.

Online court information shows Sanders has a court-issued probation violation warrant in Daviess county. He had been placed on probation in December after pleading guilty to possession of a controlled substance. Probation has been suspended for alleged failure to report and absconding from supervision.

A probation revocation hearing is scheduled Wednesday morning before Judge Thomas Chapman in Daviess county circuit court. No bond was set.
