Arraignment is scheduled today in court at Gallatin for a Pattonburg teenager who faces three felony charges from his arrest one week ago.

17 year old Jeramy Sanders has been charged in Daviess county with possession of child pornography; furnishing, or attempting to furnish, child pornography to a minor; as well as resisting or interfering with a felony arrest. Bond was set at 35 thousand dollars cash by Daviess County Judge Darren Adkins.

Sanders is the boy identified by law enforcement as a suspect or associate when Daviess county officials and the highway patrol late last weekend, issued an endangered person advisory on a 14 year old girl from Trenton: Megan Taylor Guffey.

Authorities said both were eventually located last Monday in Pattonburg.

Sanders also is to be in Circuit Court at Gallatin on March 12th, before Judge Thomas Chapman, for a probation violation hearing. The prosecuting attorney in Daviess county has filed an amended application to revoke probation issued on a previous conviction in December for possession of a controlled substance.

No bond was set on this warrant.
