An entertainer for children and families, Jim Cosgrove, presents a concert in Chillicothe on Wednesday, August 1st. Cosgrove, described as a singer, speaker, and writer, performs "interactive" concerts, concentrating on a message of "hanging on to the wonder of youth", and "loving yourself, your neighbors, and the earth".

Cosgrove has performed across the world, and twice during the annual White House Easter Egg Roll in Washington, DC. He is returning to Chillicothe after appearing there for an Area Arts Council event in April.

Cosgrove's concert at the Livingston County Library will be at 2 o'clock on August 1st. There is no charge to attend, but registration is required due to limited space. You can register by contacting the library in Chillicothe.

Cosgrove, also known as "Mr. Stinky Feet", has released eight CD's and two DVD's. His CD will be available to purchase at the August 1st event in Chillicothe.
