The Missouri Tigers first ever trip to Knoxville, Tennessee, to play the Tennessee Volunteers on Saturday, November 10th, has been chosen for a kickoff time of 11:21 on the SEC Network. The SEC Network-televised games are available from Channel 62 out of Kansas City.

CBS Sports has chosen a six-day option for its 2:30 SEC game on November 10th. The network will select either Texas A&M at Alabama OR Mississippi State at LSU for the game. ESPN will televise the game not selected by CBS in primetime (starting between 6:00 and 6:45 PM).

CBS will be televising an SEC doubleheader on November 10th. The early game will be at 11 AM with Arkansas visiting South Carolina. The 6 o'clock window will have Georgia at Auburn on ESPN2 and Vanderbilt at Ole Miss on ESPNU.

The SEC Network will do a split telecast at 11:21 AM, with Missouri at Tennessee and Louisiana-Lafayette at Florida. A map to show what game will be shown in what area will be available from SECDigitalNetwork.com, starting on Monday, November 5th.
