

Women's self defense class to be offered in Trenton

News

Posted by : John

Posted on : 2013/1/18 8:10:00

Chief Tommy Wright of the Trenton Police Department, in partnership with the Trenton Chamber of Commerce and Scientific Fighting has announced plans for a women's survival awareness and self-defense class.

The class is intended to increase situational safety and awareness for women as well as provide them with instruction on how to defend their selves in the event of an attack.

The program will be held on Saturday, March 2nd at the Trenton High School wrestling room. The cost is $20.00 per person. The class is limited to the first 40 paid participants.

Tickets will go on sale at 9:00 am Tuesday, January 22nd and may be purchased at the Trenton Police Department or the Trenton Chamber of Commerce. Anyone with questions on the March 2nd class may contact Chief Wright (at 660-359-5557) or via his email at twright@trentonmo.com. Another contact is Debbie Carman, President of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce at 660-359-4324 or her email at trentonchamber@grundyec.net.