A Minnesota resident was injured last night when, according to the Highway Patrol, his car traveling Interstate 35 struck a cow in rural Harrison county.

The patrol said 24 year old Tyler Purlilo of South Haven, Minnesota sustained serious injuries and was taken by ambulance to Harrison county community hospital in Bethany; then flown by a medical helicopter to the K-U Medical Center.

After impact, the northbound car went off the right side of I-35 and was demolished. The driver was wearing a seat belt.
