A northeast Missouri man is facing sex related felony charges and the investigation reveals he has done it before.

Larry Graber, 62, of Kirksville, is charged with two counts of first degree child molestation.

According to court papers, Graber is accused of having sexual conduct with the victim when she was just 6 years old and again at the age of 9. The victim spoke to a school counselor about the incident. She is now 11. The victim told investigators the incidents happened at Graber's residence in Kirksville.

A check of Graber's criminal history revealed that he had been convicted of sexual assault of a child back in 1985 in Omaha, Nebraska. According to investigators, some of the information from the incident back then was similar to some of the information on the recent allegations.

Graber is being held in the Adair County jail under $100,000 cash only bond.
