Trustees of North Central Missouri College have their regular meeting this evening.

The meeting begins with the annual tax levy public hearing at 5:15. A levy of 40 cents on the 100 dollars of assessed valuation has been proposed for the college taxing district. That's the same as in past years.

Assessed valuation in the district for the current tax year tops 86 million, 597 thousand dollars. That's up by two and a half million dollars when compared to last year. The proposed 40 cent levy is expected to generate 315 thousand, 200 dollars in revenue for North Central.

The Trustees at 5:30 tomorrow evening will begin their meeting with reports; adoption of the tax levy; renewal of a vendor agreement; an instructional technology purchase, and personnel. An executive session is listed for the college trustees in the areas of personnel, real estate, and legal.
